More Notoriety And Podcasts

The notoriety of the Order of Nine Angles (O9A) continues to spread, with Liar Lowles of HateNotHope stepping up his Magian campaign to have the Order of Nine Angles declared a terrorist organization and banned by the British government with its literature declared illegal. Liar Lowles continues yapping at anyone - journalist, politician, police, the 'lady of color' on the platform of Clapham tube station - that the "Order of Nine Angles is determined to promote and inspire terrorism. They must be banned" and going on to rant about EA Koetting and the murderer Danyal Hussein who Lowles and others claim, yet again without providing evidential facts, were both influenced by the O9A.

Meanwhile over Yuletide the O9A was the subject of more podcasts. This time by Hannah Palmer of MurderBucket fame. The two part podcast was centred around "crimes that have been [allegedly] directly linked to" the O9A and consisted of mentioning that the O9A denied having "members" while also reading from reports and biased sources (such as Wikipedia and Bigot Lowles) which claimed that "members" and "organizers" of the O9A were involved in various nasty crimes with as usual no mention whatsoever of the apparently now banned O9A side of the story and thus of the denials and rebuttals by O9A folk such as in the texts The Urban Myth Of The Occult Phantom Menace ¹ and The Boundaries Of O9A Philosophy. ²

Mention of podcasts brings us to the anonymous antifascist cowards - tinypod or some such silly name - who have so far spent over twenty hours mentioning and lambasting and adolescently mocking both the O9A and Mr Myatt, and who have just embarked on yet another series of hour-long podcasts about Myatt centred around the unproven allegations that he is Anton Long and a satanist, allegations made for over 40 years by antifascists in the hope of discrediting him and thus his National Socialist writings.

Appendix II
David Myatt And The Occult

As Myatt wrote in his A Reply to Allegations dated 111yf [2000] following his "door-stepping" interview by the BBC Panorama team in June 2000 {1} in a village near Malvern, England,

"For over twenty years, journalists, those opposed to National-Socialism, and dishonourable, egotistical weak-willed rumour-mongers among the so-called racial-nationalist 'Movement', have been circulating rumours and making allegations about my personal involvement with Occultism and Satanism. This is despite the fact that I have denied and do deny ever having been a 'Satanist', and despite the fact that I have stated many times that I regard Satanism as decadent and morally wrong.

These rumours and allegations were started by, and are still circulated by, my enemies for one simple reason - to try and discredit me personally. For, if I can be discredited in such a way, people will not take seriously what I have written about National-Socialism and what I have done for this most noble of Causes.

For well over fifty years the enemies of National-Socialism, the Zionists, have used the power of the Media, which is in their hands, to discredit or try to destroy the reputation of those individuals who either publicly oppose them or who those Zionists consider are or may be dangerous to them. It was so with Adolf Hitler and the NSDAP and it is so today with anyone who has the courage to stand up in public and denounce the Zionist tyranny which we are forced to live under.

In some ways, this attention is a compliment: as Adolf Hitler once said, if a person wakes up one morning and does not find himself slandered and ridiculed in the Jewish press he has not made good use of the previous day." {2}

In a 20 page essay titled A Matter Of Honour published in 2012, {3} Myatt went into some detail to rebut the allegations, ending his essay by writing that it is:

"a matter of honour. Of personal knowing [...] The traditional gentlemanly and ladylike virtues and their cultivation are no longer the standard which individuals are expected to aspire to and to uphold. Thus I do not expect the plethora of rumours and allegations about me to suddenly cease, although I admit I do and perhaps naively nurture a vague hope that what I have written here may cause a few individuals to reconsider the veracity of such rumours and allegations."

As Myatt predicted the rumours and allegations did not cease and, beginning in 2018, actually intensified due in part to a well-financed campaign by an anti-fascist organization, supported by several politicians, to have what they deemed to be an Occult organization banned by the British government and which particular Occult movement they publicly associated with David Myatt.

However, the anti-fascist group and their supporters, like others over the past forty or so years who have accused Myatt of such involvement, did not provide anything probative - any evidence admissible in a court of law - to support their accusations. Where is the authenticated paper, the digital trail, the forensically examined documents, the audio or video recordings that could be presented as evidence in a court of law? In over forty years no one has presented any evidence.

It therefore seems reasonable to conclude that accusations and rumours of Myatt's involvement with that particular Occult movement have now become something of a modern urban myth.

Which new podcasts about Myatt makes us wonder whether or not these anonymous antifascist cowards - addicted to mockery of and fantasies about Myatt - are in the pay of the FBI or some other Magian government agency or even in the pay of Liar Lowles given the time and trouble the tinypodcasters have taken and are taking to try and discredit Myatt, the National Socialist ideologist ³ and given that one of the Sugar Daddies of Liar Lowles is none other than Baron Alan Sugar himself.

One common antifascist fantasy repeated ad nauseam by the tinypodcasters is that anyone who asks them to provide evidence for their accusations about Myatt or who dares to publicly defend Myatt must be Myatt himself using a variety of pseudonyms. Argumentum ad hominem at its mundane best.

It really does seem that antifascists are desperate to discredit Myatt by any foul means, perhaps because they fear that his new pagan philosophy really might spark a National Socialist revival since his paganism does seem compatible with his earlier ethical National-Socialism. ⁴

ONA 1.0

A new compilation of texts, including a facsimile of Naos, is available titled ONA 1.0: The Original Order Of Nine Angles. According to the blurb:

"ONA 1.0 - the first iteration or release or public version of "the order of nine angles" - was in 1989 with the publication of the 127 page Naos text. ONA 1.0 was contained in the Naos MS and supplemented by the novels of the Deofel Quintet published between 1976 and 1992, and which six texts were all that were required for an individual or a partnership to embark upon the Seven Fold Way and complete a study of ONA esotericism. Presented here as a self-contained gratis document are the texts of ONA 1.0 enabling those interested to follow the simple ONA way of sorcery."

TWS Nexion Memorandum

Below is a copy of the memorandum sent by the TWS Nexion at the beginning of November last year to a few colleagues. ¹ It led to the discussions recounted in the section titled The Esoteric Philosophy And Seven Fold Way Of Anton Long - A Debate in the text From The O9A Seven Fold Way To The Hebdomian Way: A New Beginning ² the gist of which discussions concerned the anarchist/nihilist O9A principle of the 'authority of individual judgement' and what had recently resulted from that principle: such as the machinations and propaganda of the Tempel ov Blood which described itself as an O9A chapter and was accepted as such by many following the esoteric philosophy of Anton Long but was recently exposed as a front for the FBI. ³

The TWS Nexion was of the view that the principle of the 'authority of individual judgement' - and the consequences that were described in The Esoteric Philosophy And Seven Fold Way Of Anton Long, A Debate - were on balance detrimental to the quest for Lapis Philosophicus. Hence their reformation as The Seven Oxonians.

After considering the matter for some time we have decided to cease to align ourselves with the esoteric philosophy of "Anton Long" presenced in the causal esoterically as "The Order Of Nine Angles" and exoterically as The Seven Fold Way.

Our raison d'être in this matter is our collective pathei-mathos which resulted from our individual quests for Lapis Philosophicus, initially by means of the O9A Seven Fold Way, and which learning fundamentally changed our perspective, understanding, and apprehensions, resulting in and revealing our disinterest in and incompatibility with the games and the trickery presenced by the O9A's Labyrinthos Mythologicus; with the interference in the world by means of politics whether esoterically, in the form of Aeonie Sorcery, or otherwise; the causal abstractions and dialectic involved in supporting or using for whatever reason political forms such as National Socialism and countering what has been termed "the Magian ethos", and any and all forms or presencings of the Occult including "Satanism" however defined or presenced.

Such collective pathei-mathos has also resulted in we few developing our own presencing of the quest, the ἄνοδος, for Lapis Philosophicus - a modern hermetic ἐπιστήμη (épistémé) that does not involve any Occult practices, and eschews all politics and political ideologies, and all notions of changing the world and societies by any means be such means political, religious, ideological, social or Occult.

In practice, this new, Hebdomian, way is an individual interior and essentially mystical quest which can if required involve a personal guidance and which therefore is not a group, or association, or organization with members, and which does not and cannot recruit or proselytize and has no dialectical methodology or mythos.

In effect, our understanding now is that the complex esoteric philosophy presenced by "Anton Long" with its Occultism, its mythos, the nihilism of the principle of the authority of individual judgement, its methodology of using forms such as politics, antinomianism, Aeonie Sorcery and individual Sorcery such as Insight Roles, to disrupt and change the world and evolve the individual, is Old Aeon, unhelpful, unnecessary, and as recent events have revealed in its evolution and nihilism has resulted in many individuals committing dishonourable deeds.

Intolerant Antifascist Cancel Culture

One more recent example of antifascist cancel culture - censorship by any other name - is the suspension, the banning, of another pro-O9A account on the "Twitter" social media platform, the SevenOxonians. No reason was given but sources lead us to believe pressure was brought by Liar Lowles and his cronies after some posts criticising HateNotHope, one of which heretical posts dared to debunk their lies about the O9A.

In another example of the intolerance and hatred of hypocritical antifascists, here is their response on social media to someone who dared to criticize the so-called "paradox of intolerance" ¹ manufactured by the Magian Karl Popper and used by antifascists and others to censor the views of those they religiously declare are the enemies of "freedom" and "democracy" and of tolerance:

To which the reply was:

There we have it folks: the antifascist creed: dehumanization for the 20th/21st centuries. No hope, only hate. No redemption, only condemnation. BTW O9A philosophy is neither nazi nor satanist: just antinomian, heretical, for the societies of the time.

We fully expect that pro-O9A account to be suspended - banned - soon, with all its criticism of antifascists and requests for proof of their accusations against the O9A and against Myatt removed leaving the field free once again for antifascists to spread their lies and their hatred and intolerance. For such has become the societies we now live in, ruled as they now are by the Magian ethos. ²

1. According to the fallacious logic of the "paradox", antifascism and antifascists themselves should not be tolerated since they preach hatred and intolerance of, and lie about, those declared to be their enemies.
2. In regard to the Magian ethos, refer to Distinguishing The Magian in <https://archive.org/download/trouble-with-myatt-o9a/trouble-with-myatt-o9a-v5.pdf>
